Alert motorist finds Dugan Hollow wreck, driver

By MARK CAMPBELL
Courier staff writer

A Madison man was seriously injured when the car he was driving went off the roadway Sunday and rolled down a hillside on Dugan Hollow Road, east of Madison.

Ryan Stewart, 30, lost control of his car for unknown reasons and went off the roadway with the car coming to rest against a boulder about 50 yards down the hillside. Stewart was ejected from the vehicle.

The accident, which was in the same curve that claimed the life of Jefferson County Deputy Sheriff Bruce Sutton in 2009, took place shortly before 5 p.m. and might have gone unnoticed if not for a motorist who was traveling by just seconds after the crash.

Nancy Crisp, who owns and manages the Dugan Hollow Log Cabins and Suites, saw smoke or steam coming up from down the hillside and stopped to investigate.

"I thought it might be a fire or smoke coming from the fireplace in one of my cabins but that would have been a long way away," Crisp said. "After I got out, I saw the car there sideways and sitting against a boulder. It looked like it had rolled down the hillside with the boulder stopping it from going down to the bottom."

Crisp said she grabbed her phone and then slid down the hillside to the crash scene.

"I was just praying, 'Please God I hope no one is injured and please let me be able to help them if they are," Crisp recalled thinking as she slid down the leaf-covered, rocky hillside on the seat of her pants.

"The hillside is so steep that you can't walk down it. You have to slide," Crisp said. "When I got there, the car was still smoking, it was sitting against a boulder and the door was open and jammed into the ground with a man lying about 10 feet away with his feet going down the hillside."

Crisp called 9-1-1 and then starting looking for something to cover the man since the temperature was freezing cold.

"I tried to find a jacket or something in the car to put over him and keep him as warm as possible," Crisp said. "When I tried to adjust the seat — it was like a two-door coupe — the car wobbled on the boulder so I stopped looking because I was afraid the car would go on over and over the man who was lying there unresponsive."

Crisp said the officers from the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office "showed up really fast" with other ambulance and rescue workers arriving soon after. She eventually climbed up the hillside to get her car out of the way of the emergency vehicles and left the first responders to get Stewart back up the hillside using ropes and a basket.

Crisp said she is glad she came along at just the right time to see the smoke and steam from the car after the crash. Minutes later, the smoke stopped and with darkness falling, the crash might have gone unnoticed or hours.

"He would have froze to death," Crisp said. "He was already turning blue."

"I was just praying, 'Please God I hope no one is injured and please let me be able to help them if they are,'" said Nancy Crisp who came upon the Sunday accident on Dugan Hollow Road. (Submitted photo)

After weeks of searching for a way forward, the warming shelter at the Madison Salvation Army post opened last weekend for the first time this winter to shelter homeless from the arctic blast that blew in Saturday night.

The opening night for the shelter had zero attendance overnight, but Sunday night kept three people out of the cold and fed two more visitors, said Dave Adams, a volunteer with the Salvation Army and a member of the organization's board.

Adams, Bob Canida, who is also a board member and runs a dental clinic there, Adam Tuttle and Lt. Stephanie Hartley of the Salvation Army organization were the staff for the opening night of the shelter, which proved much shorter than expected. The Point of Grace Family Praise Fellowship donated chilli and bologna sandwiches for the night.

Jennings declares 2nd Amendment 'sanctuary county'

By ANDY EAST
Columbus The Republic

JENNINGS COUNTY — A resolution declaring Jennings County as a "sanctuary county" in support of the Second Amendment to the Constitution regarding the rights of citizens to bear arms was signed by government officials at the county sheriff's department Friday night.

"What this means is that we will enforce the gun laws that are currently in effect (in Indiana and the United States) but we will not enforce new laws," said Jennings County Sheriff Kenny Freeman, who led the efforts to create the resolution.

The resolution was also signed by state Rep. Jim Lucas, R-Seymour, and North Vernon Mayor Mike Ochs in the sheriff department lobby at 5 p.m. Friday.

Vernon Mayor Dan Wright and Vernon Town Marshal Britt Burgemier were also instrumental in creating the resolution, according to Freeman, but did not attend the signing ceremony.

Lucas said in a telephone interview before the ceremony he "100% fully supports" Freeman and other Jennings County and North Vernon officials making the declaration of a "sanctuary county."

"Hell, yeah," Lucas said about the announcement Friday. "One (county) down, 91 to go."

Freeman joins several sheriffs in other states, including Colorado, Illinois, New Mexico, Virginia and Washington, who have declared their counties to be "Second Amendment sanctuaries" and say they will not enforce certain federal or state gun laws, according to the Giffords Law Center to Prevent Gun Violence.

Lucas, an ardent supporter of gun rights, said he would define a "Second Amendment Sanctuary County" as a county "where the Second Amendment is simply respected, just the same as our other rights are."

"I could not be any more proud that my sheriff over in Jennings County and his staff for taking a stand defending our constitutional rights against what is becoming an increasingly oppressive government," Lucas said.

In addition to concerns about Virginia, Lucas and Freeman also mentioned Senate Bill 203 (http://iga.in.gov/legislative/2020/bills/senate/203) being introduced at the Indiana Statehouse, legislation that proposed to raise the legal age to purchase a rifle in Indiana from 18 to 21. Senate Bill 203 was filed on Jan. 6 by Sen. Greg Taylor, D-Indianapolis, and was co-sponsored by Sen. Mark Stoops, D-Bloomington. In addition to the rifle proposal, the proposed bill would also prohibit a person from possessing, selling, or offering for sale a magazine or similar device for a firearm with a capacity of more than 10 rounds of ammunition, making that a felony. The bill also proposed making it a misdemeanor to openly carry a prohibited weapon in a public place.

Indiana DNR tightens rules for 3 Ohio River fish species

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana has imposed more restrictive regulations on three popular game fish found in the Ohio River to align the state with Kentucky's regulations. The Indiana Department of Natural Resources said the new emergency rule covers walleye, sauger and saugeye, which are collectively known as Sander species. The rule that took effect Sunday sets a bag limit of six Sander species in aggregate per day, a possession limit of 12 Sander species in aggregate, and a minimum length limit of 14 inches. Indiana's previous regulations had permitted the take of 10 Sander species in aggregate per day, a possession limit of 20 Sander species, but had no minimum length limit. The state's revised rule aligns Indiana's Ohio River regulations with regulations that took effect last year in Kentucky. Sauger is the most sought-after sport fish of the Sander species on the Ohio, and is prized as excellent table fare. During the winter and early spring, they congregate downstream of dams, providing prime fishing opportunities, but high harvest rates have prevented the sauger population from reaching its full potential. The Ohio River Fisheries Management Team recommended the new regulations last year in an effort to ensure that the Ohio River's sauger population remains sustainable for future generations.

Lake Michigan access limits under study

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana lawmakers are considering a bill that would undo a landmark Indiana Supreme Court ruling that affirmed that the shoreline of Lake Michigan is unquestionably owned by the state and held in trust for use by all residents. The legislation, sponsored by state Rep. Doug Miller, would give up the state's ownership of large swaths of Indiana's lake shoreline to adjacent private property owners if the property description in their deeds indicates the land extends to Lake Michigan. The Indiana House Committee on Judiciary recently heard testimony from residents, interest groups and legislators on the proposed measure. Those who support the bill, most of whom said they own property in Long Beach, said they have no issues with people temporarily accessing the beach from their land. However, the interest groups and legislators that oppose the measure said it will prohibit public access to Northwest Indiana beaches. In its 2018 ruling, the Indiana Supreme Court guaranteed public access to Lake Michigan beaches after dismissing a claim that deeds showing property lines running into the lake are valid. Indiana, upon becoming a state in 1816, obtained ownership of the shoreline to the ordinary high water mark, which is defined as the shoreline created by water fluctuations. Sen. Karen Tallian reminded the committee that the Lake Michigan shore runs for 45 miles in Indiana "and half of that is in my district." Tallian said the committee needs to remember that the measure will impact everyone along the shore. Tallian said it is "sadly ironic" that the committee discussed the bill after she and Rep. Pat Boy sent a letter last week to Gov. Eric Holcomb asking him to declare a state of emergency for disaster funding to address beach erosion in Porter and LaPorte counties. "We no longer have a beach in Northwest Indiana, is pretty much the case," Tallian said. "We have a mess, and we're going to be losing properties up there."

Gary's 2019 homicide count highest since '07

GARY — Gary reported 58 homicides in 2019, which is the highest since 2007 when there were 71, officials said. The murder count last year was up 45% from 40 in 2018, according to The (Northwest Indiana) Times, which cited FBI data. Domestic killings jumped by nearly 90%, from eight in 2018 to 15 in 2019. That includes a case where three members of the same family were found shot to death after a fire at their home in October. Gang-related homicides were down, according to Police Commander Jack Hamady. Police believe 12 of 58 homicides last year were gang related, compared to 18 of 40 in 2018. Police hope to increase funding for a recently reorganized drug unit and to receive outside funding for SWAT and K-9 programs. They'd also like to strengthen partnerships with local, state and federal agencies.

Miami County seeks to overturn dam ruling

PERU — A northern Indiana county is seeking to overturn a court ruling that puts it on the hook for costly repairs to six aging dams in a lake-filled subdivision. Miami County is challenging a Marion County judge's August ruling which found that the Indiana Department of Natural Resources had the authority to require property owners and Miami County to fix the dams at the Hidden Hills subdivision. That judge also found that Miami County was fully responsible for those repairs. But Miami County has asked the Indiana Court of Appeals to overturn that decision, which could leave it saddled with hundreds of thousands of dollars of repairs, the Kokomo Tribune reported. The county wrote in a brief that the subdivision's property owners should share the burden of fixing the dams since the lakes created by them are only used by residents for their "own private pleasure." That court filing also notes that the homes' waterfront views have raised their property values. "The County, by contrast, gains no benefit from the dams," the brief states. "It maintains roads. It does not matter whether those roads traverse dams or the ground." Residents of the Hidden Hills subdivision, in turn, asked the Court of Appeals in their brief filed this month to uphold the Marion County judge's ruling that requires the county to fix the dams.

Hoosier rescued, then cited after rappelling

BILLINGS — A 55-year-old Winamac man had to be rescued in Yellowstone National Park after he rappelled down a deep canyon, then was unable to climb back out after he left his rope to retrieve a backpack he dropped, park officials said. Dave Christensen was uninjured in the Jan. 6 incident but was cited for disorderly conduct and for illegally going off-trail in the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone, according to court records. He has a court hearing scheduled for Feb. 3. A call made to a phone number listed for Christensen rang unanswered Saturday. Christensen was near the end of his 360-foot rope in the canyon, which is more than 1,200 feet deep in places, when he dropped his backpack, district park ranger Klint Powell told the Billings Gazette. He slid down the canyon wall to retrieve it and then could not climb back up. A friend who was communicating with him by radio from the top confirmed he was not injured and then called for help after about two hours, Powell said. A rescuer was lowered 800 feet to Christensen, and it took four hours to raise them both in the blowing snow and freezing temperatures, officials said. "It was a long, slow haul to bring him back up," Powell said. "The rescuer had to work their way up through really deep snow."

House GOP to unveil assistance reform

FRANKFORT — Republican leaders in the Kentucky House are preparing to unveil legislation aimed at increasing the state's workforce by offering transitional support to ease people off public assistance. The measure is expected to be introduced next week and will be House Bill 1, House Speaker David Osborne said Friday. The bill designation signals it's one of the top priorities for House GOP leaders. The measure is intended to tackle "systemic problems" that can discourage people from taking jobs out of fear of losing public benefits, Osborne said. The result is that people remain locked in poverty. The goal is to encourage people to enter the workforce by helping them overcome such barriers as health insurance and child care costs, Osborne told reporters. "It's more about getting people back into the workforce and giving them the tools they need to get back into the workforce without being punitive," he said. The measure takes aim at at fundamental problem: Kentucky has one of the country's worst labor-force participation rates. Osborne has said the bill won't attempt to kick people off public assistance.

120 days for punching Trump protester

CINCINNATI — A Georgetown man who punched a protester outside of an August rally for President Donald Trump in Cincinnati was sentenced Friday to 120 days in jail. The sentencing comes after a jury in Cincinnati earlier this month found Dallas Frazier, 30, guilty of misdemeanor assault. Frazier received credit for the six days he spent in jail and must pay $900 in medical expenses for Michael Alter, 61, who suffered a torn artery in his eye and required surgery. Frazier's public defender could not be reached for comment Saturday. His attorneys argued at trial that it wasn't an assault outside U.S. Bank Arena but a mutual fight between the two men. They said Alter instigated the confrontation by taunting Frazier and making a "come on" gesture after Frazier got out of his vehicle. A witness who stepped in to push Frazier away testified that Frazier was the aggressor. Prosecutors said Alter did not punch back.

Lege leaders consider oath for witnesses

FRANKFORT — Two Kentucky General Assembly leaders are considering a rule change requiring witnesses who testify during legislative committee meetings to be sworn in under oath to stop a potential spread of false information. House Speaker David Osborne and Senate President Robert Stivers said Friday that sometimes witnesses give false statements during meetings and that information often ends up in news reports, The Lexington Herald-Leader reported. The two are considering a rule change that would requite witnesses to be sworn in under oath, possibly subjecting them to a perjury charge if they lie. "There have been several times, I won't state specific instances, where some blatant misstatements of fact have been given in committee hearings," Osborne, R-Prospect, said. "This is just a reminder that when you come to the table, you are expected to deliver truth and facts." Osborne said he talked last week to the 16 House committee chairs and told them they have the option now to swear in committee witnesses. Some started the practice but Osborne didn't know how many would use it. Stivers, R-Manchester, didn't immediately tell the 12 Senate committee chairs about the potential change. He said he wants to create protocols and decide on penalties first. He mentioned possible perjury charges, a ban from testifying and a referral to the Legislative Ethics Commission. Stivers said he doesn't want to intimidate people from testifying before committees but he wants to hold people accountable. Neither Stivers nor Osborne would specify any examples of false testimonies given to legislative committees.

Program gives dentures to recovering addicts

OWENSBORO — In less than four months of existence, God Smile Ministry is already impacting lives through improving their oral health. On Jan. 9, the second and third patients of the faith-based nonprofit were being treated by Dr. Janet Rowland at her Rowland Family Dentistry office at 1030 Burlew Blvd. for what will be new dentures. Rowland has partnered with God Smile Ministry founder and Director Michael Magan who brought the idea of helping recovering drug addicts regain their smiles. "The mission of our practice is that we would serve our patients, serve our community and serve one another," Rowland said. "… So when he presented an opportunity to provide dentures to people who have been in recovery, and a past they would like to move forward from, that really meets our mission." Magan, 50, is a recovering opioid addict, who has dealt with his own oral health problems through years of drug abuse. Those interested in an application or who want to donate to the cause can contact Magan at 859-636-8680.

Hoosier Lottery stands the test of time after 30 years

By MITCHELL KIRK
Greenfield Daily Reporter

Cam Cole just turned 18 and decided he'd exercise one of adulthood's rights. At Leo's Market & Eatery in Greenfield last week, he bought his first lottery ticket.

He stopped in while his parents pumped gas outside, he said, as he held his Double the Money scratch-off ticket.

"I thought this would be fun to show them," he said.

Cole wasn't the only one experiencing an age milestone. So, too, was the producer of the ticket he held, as the Hoosier Lottery recently turned 30.

In November 1988, Indiana voters approved a lottery referendum with a 62% majority.

The Indiana General Assembly ratified the Lottery Act six months later, and Gov. Evan Bayh signed it into law. Scratch-off sales began in October 1989; more than 8 million tickets were sold the first day.

Three decades on, the state lottery continues providing players with a pastime while doling out money to winners and causes.

Through fiscal year 2019, the Hoosier Lottery had transferred more than $6 billion to the State of Indiana, including contributions of $887.6 million to the Teachers' Retirement Fund, $699.7 million to local police and firefighters' pension funds and $4.4 billion to the Build Indiana Fund.

Sarah M. Taylor, executive director of the Hoosier Lottery, said in a news release that the lottery's impact on Indiana over the last 30 years has been significant.

"We are so proud of the revenue we've generated for the state, and that our revenue is being used to support the pension plans for our retired teachers, police officers and firefighters," Taylor said. "These dedicated Hoosiers educated our children and protected our lives and property.

We hope that our support helps them enjoy their retirement for years to come."

Taylor also noted lottery revenue has also been used to fund a 50% reduction in the auto excise taxes paid by Hoosiers when renewing license plates.

Hoosier Lottery players have bought $23 billion in lottery products and have won $13.9 billion in prizes from its games, which include big-draw contests like the Hoosier Lotto and Cash 5.

After those inaugural scratch-off sales more than 30 years ago, the state lottery system's first three draw games started in 1990.

The Hoosier Lottery began multistate jackpot game sales later that same year.

There's been a profusion ever since, and the system now offers eight draw games, 70 scratch-off contests and 19 fast play challenges.

Problems of raising smoking age to 21

By NATALIE KREBS AND CARTER BARRETT
Side Effects Public Media

Just a few weeks ago, some Midwest state legislatures were aiming to raise the legal age for smoking, but Congress moved first, setting a new national age limit of 21. Now, some anti-smoking advocated say that's not enough.

The federal rule was tucked into a budget bill.

It came as Americans were prepping for the holidays, so it didn't get a lot of media attention, but the law made a sweeping change to the country's tobacco policy, raising the minimum age to buy cigarettes and electronic cigarettes.

"This is not going to prevent every single incident, but it's going to make it a lot harder for 18-year-olds to purchase these delivery devices and redistribute them to younger kids," U.S. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell said in mid-2019.

Now, health advocates and state officials are considering what else needs to be done.

The goal is to curb high rates of teens using these products and mitigate health issues.

"It's been a lot harder road than we had originally thought," says Mike Ripley, Indiana Chamber of Commerce Vice President of Health Policy and Employment Law.

The chamber has been pushing for the age increase and other tougher tobacco regulations since 2014, but Ripley didn't initially foresee 2020 being the year it got done.

"It's just like the sea has changed all of a sudden on this issue," Ripley said.

Last year, issues surrounding E-cigarettes exploded onto the national stage. There's been a sharp increase in high school students using the products.

Last year, 25% reported using E-cigarettes, and since August, there have been more than 2,500 vaping-related hospitalizations and more than 50 deaths nationwide.

Now that the federal age limit has taken effect, some health advocates want more.

"We're going to have to take it a few steps further if we want to actually comprehensively and effectively address the problem," said Bryan Hannon, government relations director at the Indiana chapter of the American Cancer Society.

He said those extra steps include stricter penalties for retailers that sell E-cigarettes or tobacco products to people younger than 21.

States also need to look at other efforts that discourage teen smoking, such as increasing the tobacco tax, said Shannon Lea Watkins, a public health professor at the University of Iowa.

"Youth and young people are particularly price-sensitive, which means that if you increase the price of something a little bit, it will impact young people more," she said. "They'll be less likely to purchase it."

She also suggests adding vaping to public smoking bans.

"Clean Indoor Air laws are huge ones that takes smoking out of public places and with that, contributed to the de-normalization of smoking."

Iowa's Department of Public Health has filed a bill that would add vaping to the state's Smokefree Air Act, which bans smoking in restaurants and bars.

The legislative sessions in Iowa and Indiana started this month.

Winter winds, temperature combine to leave icy trail

Light snow flurries scatter as a vehicle drove on Hanging Rock Hill Monday morning in Madison. With weekend temperatures in the teens, large icicles are starting to form from the springs in the rock walls to the east side of the roadway. More freezing weather is forecast through Wednesday with overnight lows in the teens. A guardrail at the Hanging Rock Hill pulloff was covered in heavy ice Monday morning after weekend temperatures in the teens gripped the area in frigid cold, bringing light snow flurries to the area. • Warming shelter

The big weather change did not occur until after 10 p.m. Saturday, which might have contributed to only two people registering to stay overnight.

Temperatures were expected to drop as low as 17 degrees but were only at a low of 32 before midnight, according to the National Weather Service. A couple of people the Salvation Army helps frequently stopped before the 10 p.m. cutoff time and registered to stay overnight.

Adams said the couple ate, but then left to shower at the house of a woman they knew and never returned.

He sent them off to the house with food for the woman who lived there and texted to ask when they would be back as the 10 p.m. curfew neared, but he never got a response. The couple did not return and the volunteers left around 11 p.m.

A meeting would be in order with the couple once they return to the shelter, Adams said. He's no stranger to giving tough love to the dozens of people he feeds, provides with transportation and tries to help on his own time. When asked how much he sleeps a night, Adams said "not much."

Canida, who runs the organization's dental clinic, and although now retired, still practices part-time at his own clinic on First Street, said it was a mild example of what they deal with in trying to help the homeless.

"That's what the problem is all around, it's not good decisions, no responsibility, but that was mild compared to a lot of them," he said.

The Salvation Army would provide their own showers, he said, but a guest destroyed theirs several months ago, bashing in the sides. He said he's in the process of getting that fixed, although money with the Madison post is tight.

"Every time something gets trashed like that, it's a real setback to the effort," Canida said.

The good news for the center is that the number of people without a place to stay appears to have decreased in recent months. Eight people shared a small space at the Main Street Comfort Station set up by the City of Madison in November. Adams has since found places for some of those eight through friends and cheap apartment listings that they can afford, as long as they hold onto a job. Now, he said, he knows of about five who consistently need shelter.

The Salvation Army branch's volunteer situation has also improved since the beginning of the cold season, with 13 new volunteer applications approved as of Saturday night, Hartley said. The Madison branch is also in the process of finding a seasonal employee to lead the shelter during winter months.

"It's really about finding the right person for the job," Hartley said. "It takes a certain amount of talent and passion in ministry to do this type of job...it definitely has to be in someone's heart to really feel that calling for that job too."

Hartley said those desired qualifications, as well as a willingness to work late hours, make it just as difficult to find volunteers.

Tuttle, an operating engineer at a water treatment plant in Salem, got hooked on volunteering when he started helping with Regatta and other community organizations more than 18 years ago.

On nights at the warming shelter, he likes to play board games with guests, hear their stories and build trust. He said his career has been rewarding, but volunteering in the community is fulfilling in a much bigger way.

"That's where I figured out I really care about people," he said.

Tuttle and the rest of the crew expected a few more people Sunday night, which dropped down to the high teens after staying in the 20s all day. Volunteers worked in two shifts — Tuttle, Happy Smith and Ken Schneider from 7 p.m. to 2 a.m. and Canida, Adams and Fred Liparini from 2 a.m. to 7 a.m.

Three people ended up staying overnight, including one woman and a father and son from Tennessee, Adams said. The couple from the night before were there for dinner, but left once again.

A few hours after leaving his shift at the warming shelter, Tuttle was back Monday at his job in Salem.

"God gives me strength," he said.

Behind shelter re-opening

COURIER STAFF REPORT

Whether or where there would be an emergency warming shelter this winter first became an issue in early November, when temperatures dropped below freezing and the Salvation Army was not in a position to provide shelter as it had done in years past.

Madison Mayor Bob Courtney has led an effort to raise money for operational, planning and potential capital expenditures for the emergency warming shelter. Courtney said the fund has topped its $20,000 goal for this year and they plan to use those funds to enable the Salvation Army to hire a seasonal shelter director to get through this year and help plan for the future.

ORVC SWIMMING

Pacers' Furnish, Armstrong each earn MVP honors

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Switzerland County Allison Furnish and Adrian Armstrong each won four events each and were named the meet MVPs at the Ohio River Valley Conference swim championships in Vevay on Saturday.

Although swimming is not an official ORVC sport, five of the seven league schools sent at least one swimmer to the event which was being held for the second-straight year.

South Ripley won the girls team title while Milan claimed the boys crown, but the stars of the event were the two standouts from Switzerland County.

Furnish, who already owns school records in every event, picked up two individual wins and anchored two winning relays as well. Furnish won the 50-yard freestyle in 27.07 and the 100 freestyle in 1:00.11. She then teamed with Alisha Detmer, Brooke Johnson and Deanna Voris to win the 200 freestyle relay in 1:57.47 as well as the 400 freestyle relay in 4:16.58.

Armstrong completed his sweep of school records with a winning time of 2:11.09 in the 200 individual medley, giving him every record in the book. Armstrong also won the 500 freestyle in 5:33.47 and teamed with Michael Stanton, Julia Regueira and Nathan Furnish to win the 200 freestyle relay in 1:42.88 and with Furnish, J.W. Goldsberry and Regueira to win the 400 freestyle relay in 3:51.28.

Nathan Furnish won the 50 freestyle in 25.09 and Regueira, an exchange student who lives with the Furnish family, won an exciting 100 freestyle by just one-one hundredths of a second in 56.88 to give the family a sweep of the freestyle sprints.

Alisha Detmer won the girls 200 freestyle in 2.28.66 for Switzerland's other win.

Southwestern's girls picked up a pair of wins with Julia Worcester winning the 500 freestyle in 6:07.51 and Belle Crawford claiming the 100 butterfly in 1:06.60.

Southwestern put on the kind of shooting display that teams can only dream of, blitzing Switzerland County to the tune of 53 first-half points en route to a 77-45 win in boys basketball Friday in Vevay.

The Rebels, who led only 20-17 after the first quarter, erupted in the second for arguably the team's best quarter in the past two years. Billy Eccles and Foster Mefford combined to hit 11 3-pointers in the first half and Southwestern scored seemingly at will, blowing open the game with a 33-4 run.

Switzerland County shot 56 percent from the floor in the first half and trailed by 32 points. It was that kind of night.

"The kids have got their mojo back, they've got their confidence back and they're playing well," Southwestern assistant coach Larry Wynn said. "We came here with an objective. Even though we're a young team, they are a basketball savvy bunch. They knew what they had to do tonight. We didn't have to tell them much; we just pointed them in the right direction."

Southwestern head coach Jerry Bomholt missed the game with an illness but the Rebels didn't miss a beat. After the two teams battled back-and-forth in the first half, the Rebels caught fire in the second and ran the Pacers out of the gym.

Southwestern (9-5, 2-1 Ohio River Valley) picked apart Switzerland County's zone defense to devastating effect, with nobody doing more damage than Eccles. The sophomore sharpshooter took advantage of the attention paid to Mefford on the other side of the floor and it was his long-range shooting that broke open the game.

After hitting two 3-pointers in the first quarter, Eccles sank four in the second, nearly all of which came with a hand in his face. Once the Pacers adjusted and started keying on Eccles, Mefford took over, hitting three late in the quarter from the other side.

The result was a one-two punch that swamped the Pacers and left head coach Adam Dennis shaking his head.

"Eccles was on and Mefford was on. There were a lot of them that we didn't do a good job of getting out on. Eccles hit those first two and we kind of had a little bit of a mental lapse and it snowballed," Dennis said. "That's basketball. There are runs, it just sucks when it happens to you."

Madison falls to New Albany 57-53

By JORDAN BEAR
Special to the Courier
sports@madisoncourier.com

Madison played right down to the wire with New Albany but couldn't get any closer than three as the Bulldogs held on for a 57-53 victory Friday night at Salm Gym.

It was a game of runs throughout much of the night as Madison closed the first quarter and started the second quarter on a 10-1 run to take a 12-6 lead.

After a timeout by coach Jim Shannon, New Albany went on an 18-1 run to take a 24-13 lead into halftime. Madison came out hot after the break and cut the lead to 39-31 heading into the final period.

On three different occasions in the fourth, Madison cut the lead to four but every time New Albany responded to re-extend its cushion. The Cubs finally cut the lead to three on a pair of Nick Center free throws but New Albany answered with a pair of three point plays by Tucker Biven and then carried that momentum to the win.

Although disappointed with the loss, coach Sherron Wilkerson was proud of the Cubs fought and how they're learning how to play high level basketball.

"It's what we teach them. They're starting to learn championship level basketball, and that's going to help us as we get to the tougher part of our schedule," Wilkerson said. "I told them we didn't lose this game, we got beat. We got beat by a really good team, who is exceptionally well-coached. Our guys fought hard until the very end."

It was the 21st straight year that Madison has lost to New Albany, the Cubs' last victory coming during the 1998-99 season. However, Wilkerson was pleased with the his team's competitiveness.

"This game shows that we can compete with these teams. We can play with New Albany, Jeffersonville, Floyd Central, and Silver Creek," Wilkerson said. "We have shown that we're not just going to lay down. We're here to play and here to win."

Madison was led by junior Luke Ommen with 15 points. Kaden Oliver scored 13 while Luke Miller added 10. New Albany was led by Biven with 19 points, while Jordan Thomas scored 14.

Madison, now 10-3 overall and 1-2 in the Hoosier Hills Conference, returns to action Saturday to host Floyd Central on Madison's homecoming.

WRESTLING ROUNDUP

Madison places 6th at HHC finals

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

All 12 Cubs in action finished in the top eight as Madison placed sixth in the Hoosier Hills Conference wrestling championships at home on Saturday.

Bryce Turner and Van Skinner each finished in the top three to lead the Cubs. Turner was second at 113 pounds while Skinner was third at 170.

Madison was picked to place sixth based upon seeds and with junior Kelsey Bilz (106) competing at the girls state finals and senior Jacob McRoberts (125) nursing an injury, the Cubs were hindered in their efforts to move up.

Turner opened the tournament with a pin of Seymour's Edward Ramirez in 1:03 in the quarterfinals and a 7-5 win over Jeffersonville's Robert Cline in the semifinals. He then lost a 19-2 technical fall to Noah Lykins of Columbus East in the championship to earn all-conference honorable mention for his efforts.

"Bryce put a good tourney together today. We are close to him being right where he needs to be," Madison coach Tyson Skinner said.

Van Skinner pinned Bedford North Lawrence's Drake Huber in 2:16 in the quarterfinals but fell 13-3 to 13th-ranked Sam Morrill of East in the semifinals. Skinner then wrestled back, beating Jeffersonville's Jadehn Debman 6-2 in the semis and scored another pin of Huber, this time in 59 seconds, for third place.

"Van ran into a tough kid from East in the semifinals but as a freshman quickly regrouped and finished with wins," Tyson Skinner said.

Noah Burkhardt (120 pounds), Mason Long (152), Tucker Adams (220) and Dylan Fulton (285) all placed fourth while Emmett Wilhite (138) and Dalton Berry (182) were fifth. Brayden Richards (132) placed sixth, Luke McCarty (145) and Colin Fulton (195) were both seventh, and Trenton Stockdale (160) was eighth.

Madison travels to New Washington for a dual meet on Thursday.

Bilz places 4th at state

Madison junior Kelsey Bilz finished fourth at the Indiana Wrestling Coaches Association Girls Wrestling State Finals in Kokomo on Saturday.

Bilz, who finished third at 106 pounds last year, wrestling at 113 pounds this year where she was ranked third. She opened the tournament with an impressive pin in just 48 seconds over Lita Chowning of Jay County before falling by fall in 2:40 in the semifinals to Munster's Trinity Malave, an Indiana Tech signee.

Bilz then lost 8-4 to Annalyse Dooley of West Vigo in the third-place match.

"I know she fell short of her goal, but she is focused on improving in the offseason and I think we will see a different result next year," Madison assistant coach Sam Johnson said.

"I am really impressed how in a male-dominated room she never backs down. She is one of the toughest wrestlers we have in the room and when the IHSAA eventually sanctions girls wrestling she will be known as one of Madison's best," Madison head coach Tyson Skinner said.

Smith, Wolf win SWIC

Southwestern's Brandon Smith and Switzerland County's Austin Wolf each claimed weight titles at the Southern Indiana Wrestling Conference championships on Saturday at Delbert O. King Gym in Hanover.

Smith, competing at 145 pounds, picked up a forfeit in the opening round then pinned Mitchell's Jacob Arthur in 1:21 in the quarterfinals. He then beat Borden's Lody Cheatham 8-1 in the semifinals and posted a 12-3 major decision over Salem's Blake McGlaughlin in the championship.

Wolf, wrestling at 126 pounds, opened with a forfeit win then pinned Nathan Teusch of Eastern (Pekin) in 1:12 in the quarterfinals. He pinned Trent Burdette of Milan in 1:44 in the semifinals then scored a close 5-4 win over Travis Haug of Forest Park in the championship.

Southwestern's Brady McLain finished second after picking up wins via pin over Providence's Roy Shrout (1:18) and Paoli's Braydon Hayes (1:47) in the first two rounds at 195 pounds and defeating Hauser's Zach Hauser 9-3 in the semifinals. He then lost 12-8 to Manuel Ordorica of Charlestown in the championship.

Southwestern's Cameron Canada (120 pounds) and Mitchell Adcock (170) each placed third, Matthew Douglas (182) was fourth, Dawson Lichlyter (138) was sixth, and Logan Birchfield (285) did not place after going 0-2.

Switzerland County's Michael Galbreath placed third at 285 pounds, Jacob Wolf was sixth at 132, Alec Boggs was seventh at 195, and Ryan Stanton (170) and Tyler Lieland (182) each went 0-2 and did not place.

Charlestown scored 216 points to edge Milan by three points to win the 17-team event. Eastern (Pekin) was third with 201 points. Southwestern placed sixth with 117 while Switzerland was 13th with 82.

Southwestern returns to action on Saturday when the Rebels compete in the South Dearborn Invitational. Switzerland County also competes on Saturday at Milan.

Hilltopper rally falls short in loss

By ROB LAFARY

sports@madisoncourier.com

Shawe had high hopes of getting back to the .500 mark on Friday night but a dry spell to start the second half doomed the Hilltoppers as Trinity Lutheran picked up a 70-55 win in boys basketball action at Meny Gymnasium in Madison.

Down 10 points at halftime, Shawe had done enough in the first half to stay within striking distance of Trinity but a 10-0 run by the Cougars in the early going of the third quarter stretched the lead out for good despite a late Hilltopper run.

Although the loss marks is the third-straight for the Hilltoppers, optimism remains high with head coach Dan Hambrick as the flaws continue to be fixable.

"I told them let's come back out in the third quarter because everybody knows the first couple minutes of the third quarter are the most important but we went the opposite way," Hambrick said. "They (Trinity) went on a 10-0 run to start the third quarter. If you think about this, we were down by 20 points but we played the last 14 minutes after that and outscored them by five points. It's a game of runs but I think we battled."

As the Hilltoppers looked to battle back from the 20-point deficit, tensions ran high with 1:04 left in the third quarter when a battle on the floor for a loose ball escalated quickly between the two teams.

Shawe's Chandler Cole and Trinity's Tyler Goecker collided resulting in Cole being hit with a technical foul and being ejected from the game after a hit on Goecker. The situation was quickly cleared up by both officials and coaches and Shawe came out of an extended break fired up and ready to make its run.

The Hilltoppers closed out the third quarter on a brief run and trailed just 55-44 after Grayson May's 3-pointer fell through the net at the buzzer. May hit another trifecta to open the fourth quarter, boost that momentum and trim the deficit to eight points but the Cougars regained their composure and pushed the advantage back out.

Mitchell Hackman answered to score five points in the fourth period, Josh Rowe hit a jumper inside the arc and Shawe never made a serious run again, hitting just three field goals in the final seven minutes of the game.

"I don't really know what happened underneath the bucket," Hambrick said of the altercation between Cole and Goecker. "Of all people to do that, I would pick Chandler probably to be the last one to lose his cool but it happens and friction gets high. We talked to him and he is fine. It's a game that we just had to take one possession at a time. We battled but we just have to learn to keep our heads in the ballgame and keep playing hard."

Shawe opened the game red-hot from the field and led by two possessions early on. Henry Grote drained two 3-pointers and Jack Grote hit a three from the wing to pace the Hilltoppers before six points by Jack Marksberry and five points from Rowe allowed Trinity back into the contest and tie the game 17-17 at the first stop.

The game was still tied at 19-19 in the second quarter when the Cougars finished out the half on 21-11 run. Hudson Norton came off the bench and drilled a trio of 3-pointers while Marksberry continued his first half surge with nine more points. Shawe had all five starters reach the scoring column in the half, including four players scoring in the second period, but still couldn't match Trinity's overpowering offensive assault.

"They're a good shooting team," Hambrick said. "We had 30 points at halftime and there's not many nights where you score 30 points in a half and are down by 10. We kind of got punched there in the second quarter after we played really well there in the first quarter. We just gotta continue to understand this is a game of runs and how to play through those runs. But again I think we are heading in the right direction."

Three players reached double figures for Shawe, led by Ethan Stuart with 20 points including 12 in the second half. May finished with 14 points and Henry Grote chipped in 10.

Trinity Lutheran (6-8) had four players hit double figures as Marksberry led all scorers with 21 points including 15 in the first half. Hackman and Norton scored 12 points each while Rowe finished the night with 11 points.

On Saturday, Shawe dropped a close 46-44 decision at Columbus Christian when C.J. Reed banked in a 35-footer at the buzzer.

Shawe had air-balled the front end of a 1-1 with 3 seconds left while heading 44-43.

Reed finished with 25 points.

Shawe (6-9) visits Rising Sun Jan. 31. A Jan. 28 game at home against Cornerstone Christian has been canceled.

Shawe girls fall 29-24

South Central got off to a quick start and held on for a 29-24 win at Shawe on Saturday afternoon.

The Rebels built an 11-3 lead by the end of the first quarter. The game ground to a halt after that with South Central leading 17-12 at halftime and 25-16 after three quarters.

Shawe connected on just 15% of its shots (8-of-54) but turned the ball over only 10 times. Grace McAllister scored eight points and had six rebounds to lead Shawe.

Shawe (6-12) visits New Washington Tuesday and Columbus Christian Thursday.

Lady Cubs place 8th at HHC

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Madison's girls swim team placed eighth in the Hoosier Hills Conference championships at Jeffersonville on Saturday.

The Cubs had only two relays place on the afternoon. The 200-yard medley relay team of Emily Nay, Anne Grady, Lucy Lynch and Trinity Stoner swam a 2:12.90, holding their sixth-place seed time. The same ladies took sixth in the 200 freestyle relay team with a time of 1:59.34, moving up one spot from their seventh spot seed time.

"Collectively, we didn't have our best swims of the season. For those who came to race, it was a nice showing," Madison coach Ashley Schutte said. "A meet like this puts things in perspective, you have to be mentally tough, physically willing to push yourself, and realize that times on paper can't impact your performance."

Other finishes for the Cubs were: Katie Royce, Tabby Jameison, Callie Anderson and Andie Royce-Miller, eighth, 400 free relay, 4:37.68; Anne Grady, 10th, 100 fly, 1:12.74, 13th, 100 free, 1:04.17 and 14th, 100 breast, 1:26.81; Nay, 12th, 100 back, 1:14.21; Stoner, 15th, 100 free, 1:04.64 and 16th, 50 free, 29.56; Royce, 15th, 500 free, 6:33.29 and 17th, 200 IM, 2:50.85; Jameison, 15th, 100 back, 1:16.78; Anderson, 16th, 100 fly, 1:20.94 and 19th, 200 IM, 2:54.38; Lynch, 16th, 100 back, 1:20.40 and 19th, 30.49; Haruna Sasaki, 17th, 100 breast, 1:34.39 and 23rd, 200 IM, 3:25.07; Royce-Miller, 18th, 200 free, 2:31.36 and 20th, 100 free, 1:10.25; Alyssa Storm, 20th, 50 free, 31.54 and 21st, 200 free, 2:58.72; Vanina Kelsey, 21st, 500 free, 7:55.46; Maddie Caswell, 21st, 100 breast, 1:43.53; Autumn Hedgepeth, 22nd, 200 free, 3:07.26; and Charlie Vaughn, 22nd, 500 free, 8:34.13.

Madison hosts Scottsburg on Tuesday and then celebrates senior night on Thursday at home against South Dearborn.

Other finishes for the Switzerland County boys were: Stanton, second, 50 free, 28.17 and fifth, 100 breast, 1:25.91; Furnish, second, 100 fly, 1:06.41; Levi Goldsberry, Regueira, J.W. Goldsberry and Stanton, third, 200 medley relay, 2:32.70; J.W. Goldsberry, fourth, 200 free, 2:36.26 and fourth, 100 back, 1:15.15; and Levi Goldsberry, fifth, 200 free, 3:06.49 and sixth, 100 free, 1:21.90.

Other finishes for the Switzerland County girls were: Voris, second, 500 free, 7:03.82 and third, 200 IM, 2:57.52; Johnson, third, 200 free, 2:50.45; Detmer, third, 100 free, 1:07.14; Johnson, Ning Wang, Josie Stogsdill and Zoey Walston, fourth, 200 medley relay, 3:06.37; Stogsdill, fifth, 100 fly, 1:53.35 and fifth, 100 breast, 1:39.64; and Wang, seventh, 100 back, 2:16.14 and 10th, 50 free, 39.44.

Other finishes for the Southwestern girls were: Worcester, second, 50 free, 27.49; Crawford, second, 100 back, 1:09.15; Crawford, Amiah Owen, Worcester and Audrey Bare, second, 200 medley relay, 2:24.56 and fourth, 400 free relay, 4:54.38 and fourth, 100 free, 1:12.04; Owen, fourth, 100 breast, 1:37.03; and Bare, eighth, 100 free, 1:29.15 and ninth, 50 free, 37.15.

Finishes for the Southwestern boys were: Andrew Stoner, second, 200 free, 2:22.06 and fourth, 100 breast, 1:25.71; Caleb Geary, second, 100 IM, 2:22.57 and second, 500 free, 5:43.30; Ethan Besse, second, 100 free, 56.89 and third, 100 back, 1:08.65; Besse, Stoner, Geary and Logan Williams, second, 200 medley relay, 2:08.75 and third, 200 free relay, 1:53.89; and Williams, fifth, 50 free, 29.65.

Shawe's Ale Giaveri, his school's lone participant, had a good meet finishing third in the boys 100 breaststroke in 1:25.61 and fourth in the 50 freestyle in 28.85.

South Ripley scored 253 points to edge Milan by three points and claim the girls team title. Switzerland was third with 213 and Southwestern was fourth with 137.

Milan's 345 points in the boys meet easily outdistanced runner-up Switzerland County, which had 229. Southwestern was third with 135 and Shawe was fourth with 23.

Southwestern returns to action on Tuesday when it swims at Lawrenceburg. The Rebels then compete at Milan on Thursday.

Switzerland County (5-7, 0-1 ORVC) recovered enough to open the third quarter on an 11-0 run, but as a testament to how big the hole was for the Pacers, all it did was pull them to within 22 points. By the end of the third, Southwestern had re-established its 33-point lead.

The only down side to the game was the injury suffered by Eccles midway through the half. Eccles finished the game with a career-high 25 points on 7-of-10 shooting — including 6-of-9 on 3-pointers, but his night ended when he fell trying to chase down a loose ball and his head was stepped on by a Switzerland player.

Eccles suffered injury to his mouth, chin and nose on the play and was taken to the hospital for evaluation. Wynn said that the play was just one of those things that happen in a game with no fault by anybody involved.

"We see Billy do this at practice all the time. It's nothing for him to pull up at the volleyball line and knock down six in a row. The poor jayvee kids throw up their arms and say, 'Coach, what are we suppose to do?'" Wynn said. "Billy will be back. I'm sure they'll pull that tooth back down and hopefully he'll be OK. He'll be back to normal soon and in my opinion, he'll be able to play."

Mefford finished the game with 26 points on 8-of-16 shooting, including 6-of-12 on 3-pointers, as well as eight assists and three steals. Combined, Mefford and Eccles were 12-of-26 on threes and despite the team cooling off in the second half, the Rebels were still 43 percent (26-for-61) for the game as well as 13-of-14 on free throws.

In addition, Austin Kramer had 11 points, Zach Cole had 10 points and six rebounds and Mitchell Cline had 12 rebounds to go along with two points.

Switzerland County finished the game shooting 45 percent, but just 18-of-40 from the field. Damian Breeck scored 18 points and had five rebounds to lead the way while Coby Chase had 11 points.

Southwestern is off until next Friday when it hosts Christian Academy of Indiana.

Pacers fall to South Ripley

South Ripley took control of the game in the second quarter and pulled away for a 74-61 win at Switzerland County on Saturday.

The visiting Raiders led only 18-17 after the first quarter but dominated the second, outscoring Switzerland 20-5 in the second to blow open the game. The Pacers outscored Ripley by three over the final two quarters but the damage had been done.

Damian Breeck scored 23 points and had seven rebounds to lead Switzerland while Landon Wilks scored 19 points and Zach Weaver had 15.

Bryce Franklin led South Ripley with 16 points and Cody Samples had 15.

Switzerland, now 5-8 overall and 0-2 in the Ohio River Valley Conference, travels to Rising Sun on Friday.

SUMMONS FOR SERVICE BY PUBLICATION & NOTICE OF CHILD IN NEED OF SERVICES HEARING

TO:
Any Unknown Alleged Father
Whereabouts unknown

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to Any Unknown Alleged Fathers, whose whereabouts are unknown, that the Indiana Department of Child Services has filed its Verified Petition Alleging the child to be in Need of Services, in accordance with I.C. 31-34-9-3, and that an adjudication hearing has been scheduled with the Court.

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to appear before the Judge of the Jefferson Circuit Court, 300 East Main Street, Madison, IN 47250-3537 - 812-265-8930 for a(n) Initial/Fact Finding Hearing on 3/12/2020 at 10:00 AM. At said hearing, the Court will consider the Petition and evidence thereon and will render its decision as to whether the above named minor child is child in need of services and shall enter adjudication accordingly. Your failure to appear after lawful notice will be deemed as your default and waiver to be present at said hearing.

UPON ENTRY OF SAID ADJUDICATION, A DISPOSITIONAL HEARING will be held in which the Court will consider (1) Alternatives for the care, treatment, or rehabilitation for the child; (2) The necessity, nature, and extent of your participation in the program of care, treatment, or rehabilitation for the child; and (3) Your financial responsibility for any services provided for the parent, guardian or custodian of the child including child support.

YOU MUST RESPOND by appearing in person or by an attorney within thirty (30) days after the last publication of this notice, and in the event you fail to do so, an adjudication on said petition, judgment by default may be entered against you, or the court may proceed in your absence, without further notice.

YESTERDAY ONE IDEA; TODAY A VARIATION

Edward Hoagland, who is best known for his nature and travel essays, wrote, "Country people do not behave as if they think life is short; they live on the principle that it is long, and savor variations of the kind best appreciated if most days are the same."

As we are all aware, there are variations to almost all declarer-play and defensive rules. In this deal, West leads the heart nine against three no-trump. After declarer plays low from the board, how should East analyze the deal?

Yesterday, we looked at a deal in which East had not to win trick one, but to force declarer immediately to burn up one of his two stoppers in that suit. Is this the same?

East was understandably worried about dummy's diamond suit. Before playing to trick one, he tried to anticipate the future play. He realized that if he ducked the first trick to South's heart queen, he would get in with his diamond trick and could drive out the heart ace, but it would be too late. Declarer would run for home with, in this layout, two overtricks.

Was there a more-promising defense?

How about winning the first trick and shifting to a club? If West had some goodies there, the defenders would have a chance to take one heart, one diamond and three clubs. As you can see, that was exactly how the play panned out.

East and West were happy, but North was unhappy. He wanted to know why his partner hadn't taken the first trick with dummy's heart ace and established diamonds.

Clifty Falls waterfalls

Improved view thanks to volunteer tree trimmers

"We love to give back," said Steve Pike, owner of Pike's Tree Care. (Photo by WKM News)

Clifty Falls State Park's three primary overlooks recently received a facelift, thanks to Pike's Tree Care workers who trimmed trees and other undergrowth away from the hillsides so the view of the falls will be easier to see this spring.

Steve Pike, owner of Pike's Tree Care, said Clifty Falls State Park contacted the tree trimming service to help remove much of the trees and other plants that have overgrown the hillsides surrounding a few of the overlooks around the park. Because of the dangerous conditions of reaching each hillside and to make sure no endangered species were harmed, Pike's Tree Care waited until the winter to start trimming and removing the excess trees and plants.

Pike's Tree Care not only donated its equipment to access the areas that needed to be trimmed, but they also volunteered their time to help properly remove the trees from each hillside. They brought chainsaws, rope, helmets, volunteers and much more to safely remove debris from the overlooks.

"We love to give back," Pike said. "The community has been phenomenal to us and we do a lot of work for the state parks, all in southern Indiana, and in northern Kentucky as well. And for us, this has been a neat opportunity."

What's that old phrase? Remembering how to give, not receive

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: People who complain about giving gifts and not getting one in return should remember an old saying: If you are giving something and expecting something in return, then it is not giving; it is business. — Good Ol' Saying Dear Good Ol' Saying: May our readers find the pleasure in giving to others without expecting something in return. That good feeling in and of itself is a gift.

Dear Annie: A writer asked about giving a gift to someone who has everything. We think of gift-giving as expensive and impressive. It's not. The best gift can be some small trinket that brings back a happy memory that you shared with a person or persons.

We spent one Christmas on a small foreign island. The only thing open on Christmas Eve was a small 7-Eleven store. We made the spending limit $5. It's hard to find anything for that amount, even in a 7-Eleven.

One gift was a small set of Christmas tree lights. Back at the motel, my wife broke off a small branch and stuffed it in a coffee can. We lit it up. It looked just like the Christmas tree in the "Peanuts" comic strip. We had a great Christmas and many laughs over the years about our little tree.

My greatest gift was the last photo of my wife. Although she was extremely sick, she sat up and smiled. It now sits on my desk and I look at it every day and smile. It's a great way to start a day. — Greatest Gift

Dear Greatest Gift: I am very sorry about the loss of your wife. What a touching and beautiful way to honor and remember her. It sounds like you had a true love with a true artist. Making a Christmas tree out of a coffee can — I love it. Thank you for sharing your letter. I hope that it inspires others to cherish the memories they make with their loved ones while they are here on earth.

Dear Annie: Can you stand one more letter about guests helping with the cleanup after a meal? I do appreciate the offer of assistance, but I have my own efficient method for cleaning up after a meal in my small kitchen.

Guests who insist on helping by clearing the table and putting things wherever there's a bare spot on the counter only complicate and prolong the process.

I have one friend who totally gets my system, and I have no problem with her jumping in, but everyone else makes it more chaotic.

So, dear guests, your sincere offers to help will always be appropriate and appreciated, but please be gracious enough to respect your host's response if they ask you to relax and let them handle it. — Kitchen Cleanup

Dear Kitchen Cleanup: You sound like a great host. All that your guests have to do is to enjoy themselves and relax.

I'm glad that you acknowledged and appreciated their offer to help, but you were clear that you do not need their help and just want them to relax. What a lovely evening.
